An increased rate of falling leads to a rise in fracture risk in postmenopausal women with self-reported osteoarthritis: a prospective multinational cohort study (GLOW)

Dr. Adolf Díez Pérez
Musculoskeletal Research Group (RICAD), IMIM (Hospital del Mar Research Institute)

Dr. Díez obtained his MD degree in Medicine (1974) and his PhD in Medicine (1989) at the University of Barcelona. He is a practicing clinician at Hospital del Mar and Scientist of IMIM (Hospital del Mar Medical Research Institute), Head Emeritus of the Department of Internal Medicine and Titular Professor of the Autonomous University of Barcelona. Is member of the Board of Directors of the International Bone and Mineral Society and of the Committee of Scientific Advisors of the International Osteoporosis Foundation. He has been president of the Spanish Society of Bone and Mineral Research and the Spanish Society of Osteoporotic Fractures, Advisor of the WHO and member of the Board of Directors of the European Calcified Tissues Society. His studies have generated 240 papers in peer-reviewed journals and 2 patents.

Dr. Diez interests are focused on the genetic are epigenetic analysis of osteoporosis, clinical and epidemiological aspects of the disease and new diagnostic methods for the assessment of bone strength by using novel techniques of in vivo microindentation.